As We

See It

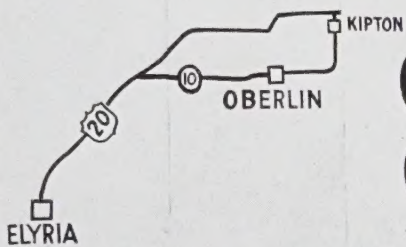

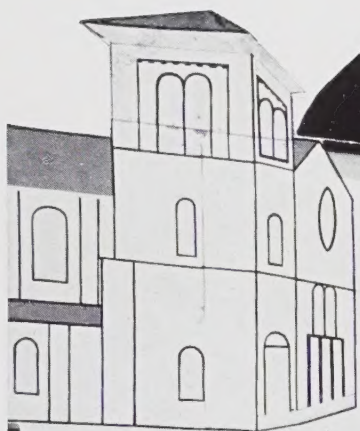

ON Ohio Route 10, thirty miles from Cleveland, lies the town of Oberlin. To us the town is interesting chiefly because it contains Oberlin College. For it is with this college, as it is in the school year 1940-41, that this book is concerned. And as far as this Hi-O-Hi may be said to have a theme, that theme is Oberlin.

Like most other U. S. colleges, Oberlin has a campus, a campus which in the Spring is unbelievably beautiful. It is not the campus, however, but the people—those who are here now, those who have been here in the past—that sets Oberlin apart. To those who teach, this year was only one of many, and this book is not for them. To those who learn, however, this year was one of the “four happiest”, this book is for them.

These people do more than learn, they organize. They organize mock conventions, Pan American Conferences, publications, literary clubs, in fact any group of people over five organizes something. And since they no longer labor in the corn fields, they organize their exercise, by entering varsity teams in ten sports, and creating an extensive Intramural program. Of course these people carry on life's normal functions; they eat, and sleep, and shave, and bathe, in houses scattered all over the campus. And when they are bored with the routine, they hold pushball contest, decorate for homecoming, or just go dancing.

What the people did this year, and what they do every year; the news of this year, and the traditions from other years—to these is the 1941 Hi-O-Hi dedicated.

There is a town . . .

ONE hour by Greyhound from the theatres and department stores of Cleveland and within biking distance of the bathing beaches of Lake Erie is the sedate little village of Oberlin. In plan it is typically middle-western: a square park is the center of a rectangular system of streets and is bounded on one side by a business district of low, flat buildings. Oberlin is not like other Ohio villages, however, for it is the site of a college, without which it would not exist.

OBERLIN, which was born and has survived because of the college, now regards it in a rather detached manner, showing mild interest, if not extreme enthusiasm. To understand this attitude, one must trace the history of the village and its inhabitants. Founded in 1833 as a religious colony, it was hoped that Oberlin would be the leader in Christianizing the west. A college was started to train young men to become "ministers and pious school teachers", and in 1837 women were admitted. The college and town were bound together for many years by common religious aims, but with the passage of a century the religious ideals of the college have become more purely academic, and the village has become a haven for retired ministers, missionaries, and alumni. Even if the country undergoes a great metamorphosis in the next century, it is reasonably safe to predict that Oberlin will remain the unperturbed, unhurried, philosophical little village that she is.

In the Town, a College

IN some respects Oberlin is like a university, containing as it does three separate schools, the College of Arts and Sciences, the Theological Seminary, and the Conservatory of Music. The Theological Seminary, and the Conservatory are neatly housed, each with its own building. The college, however, scatters itself over the town of Oberlin, in buildings which vary widely in beauty, and even more widely in architectural style.

Some of Us Are Behind Desks

THE faculty of the Oberlin College, Conservatory, and Theolog, numbering 151 members, is one of the finest in the country. Many of its members are doing special research work, writing books, and lecturing in addition to teaching courses. A number of them are mentioned in Who's Who. Two have recently come from abroad; one was Minister of Minorities in post-war Hungary; the other was head of the Philosophy department at the University of Prague. This year we have had with us as a visiting lecturer one of the world's most eminent archaeologists. Several have been very successful in the literary field: one was presented with the Book of the Month Club in 1937, and another has been honored for a number of his books, the latest of which is a best-seller, by the Religious Book of the Month. An authority on architecture has given a series of weekly lectures at the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York between his Oberlin classes. Another professor divides his time between Oberlin and Washington, where he holds a position on the National Defense Council. And a crowning honor was given this year to one of our faculty members when he was elected President of the American Chemical Society.

OUR "honor roll" faculty members would be awe-inspiring and consequently unapproachable if it were not for their consciousness of the academic (and non-academic) needs of the students. It is their desire to fill these needs that creates the mutual understanding and good will between professor and student which characterizes Oberlin.

Ernest Hatch Wilkins

A President

Realizing that Oberlin should teach its students to accept the social responsibility of good citizenship, President Wilkins this year sponsored a series of ten lectures on Democracy, Communism, and Fascism. He has also encouraged the growth of such organizations as the Peace and Public Affairs Forum. Thus we respect our president as a scholar who does not think the problems of a material world beneath his consideration, but rather feels that the keen analytical approach of the scholar is necessary if the problems of the world are to be permanently solved. More than as a scholar, however, we respect our president as a man who will listen to our troubles, help us with our problems, and enjoy the familiar greeting, "Prexy".

Carl Wittke

DEAN WITTKÉ

Four years ago Dean Wittke came to us from Ohio State in the official capacity of dean of the college and professor of history. Possessed of an amazing store of energy and ability along many lines, he has been a vitalizing influence on campus. His literary accomplishments are multifold, his latest being We Who Built America, published two years ago. He is also an outstanding lecturer. This year his address on the evolution of democracy launched the popular series of Thursday night lectures. His pet hobby is music, and he plays the violin in the conservatory orchestra.

DEAN GRAHAM

Dean Graham, a Canadian by birth, went to the University of Toronto, after which he was ordained as a Presbyterian minister. He has always been active in the YMCA; for a year during the war he was army secretary, and was later made a member of the General Board. He has just returned to Oberlin from a sabbatical leave which he spent in traveling to Japan, Singapore, Ceylon, Africa, and South America.

Frank Shaw

DIRECTOR SHAW

Dr. Shaw did his undergraduate work in the Oberlin Conservatory, studied in other places, including Paris, and finally returned to Oberlin as Dean of the Conservatory. He has spent most of his time teaching and solving Conservatory problems since he has been here. In 1929 he was elected President of Pi Kappa Lambda. Music is, of course, of utmost importance in his life, but it does not dominate his interests completely; he is extremely proud of his fine collection of pipes, enjoys boxing matches, and is known as the best dressed man on campus.

Edward Bosworth

DEAN BOSWORTH

Dean Bosworth's career speaks for his diversified abilities: he graduated from the Oberlin school of Theology, acted as pastor of two churches, was Physical Director of the Detroit YMCA, was connected with the Grain Exchange in Minneapolis, and became Dean of college men in 1927. He is an ardent sports enthusiast and enjoys officiating at track meets and intramural activities. Always concerned with civic affairs, he was a former President of the Oberlin Exchange Club.

Marguerite Woodworth

DEAN WOODWORTH

Miss Woodworth holds the oldest dean of women's position in the country, since Oberlin pioneered in admitting women. She has had a wide range of experience, having studied at Syracuse University, where she was Associate Dean of Women, the Sorbonne, and St. Hugh's at Oxford. This year she has distinguished herself by delivering addresses at Pembroke College and at the Atlantic City meeting of the National Association of Deans of Women, as well as by directing a special reading course on Russian and French Novelists of the 19th century.

DEAN VAN METRE

Mrs. Van Metre had experience in the administration of a children's hospital and in editing a magazine in Los Angeles, so it is small wonder that she has been able to fulfill her duties so capably. She acts as advisor to Conservatory women and assigns room and board jobs for all women on campus. Loved for her deep understanding of people and sense of humor, she is respected for her good judgment, fairness, and efficiency.

Those Who Plan Our Future

HEADED by genial Bill Seaman, who is assisted by Curt Anderson, the Bureau of Admissions knows no holidays. All through the year, Bill is corresponding with and playing host to the hundreds of prospective students who take a preliminary interest in Oberlin. Meanwhile, for weeks at a time, Curt tours the country (O Unhappy Wife!) exemplifying and demonstrating to high school seniors the "Oberlin Way". Nor is this the only job of this amiable pair. Head and Assistant Head, respectively, of the Bureau of Appointments, the second semester slack in prospective-student correspondence is filled with summer job hunting for College and Conservatory men and women, and permanent job hunting for extremely worried Seniors.

In the same building, but in no way connected, is the office of Al Bailey, who handles all the publicity for the College. Often opposed by conservative and reactionary elements, Al has managed to keep Oberlin on the map in his four and one-half years in office.

Some of Us Are in Front of the Desks . . .

FROM every state in the Union, from twenty-seven foreign countries come the students that make up Oberlin's eighteen hundred. As Freshmen and Sophomores, they learn to labor, and labor at their learning. They get their first tastes of Oberlin manners and traditions. Home becomes that desk in the corner of the room, and bluebook means coffee, caffeine pills, or cokes to keep awake with. They fight among each other to keep alive the Frosh-Soph tradition. By the time they are Juniors, the pattern has become stereotyped. Tradition has become habit. Libe dates, coke dates, bicycles, the arb, bridge at chapel time, these are the accepted mannerisms of Oberlin. The Oberlin way. And then, all of sudden, Freshmen are Seniors. Seniors, with Recitals to give, theses to write. Swiftly the year passes, the Senior is no longer a Senior, but an individual, a citizen, ready to work, vote, settle down, marry. Then it is that he likes to look back and remember. May these pages help him.

OFFICERS

FOUR years the class of 1941 has worked. Long afternoons they spent in the laboratories and the practice rooms; long evenings they studied at the library. And for four years the class of 1941 has played. They danced at recs, played ping pong at Goodrich, drank cokes at the Varsity.

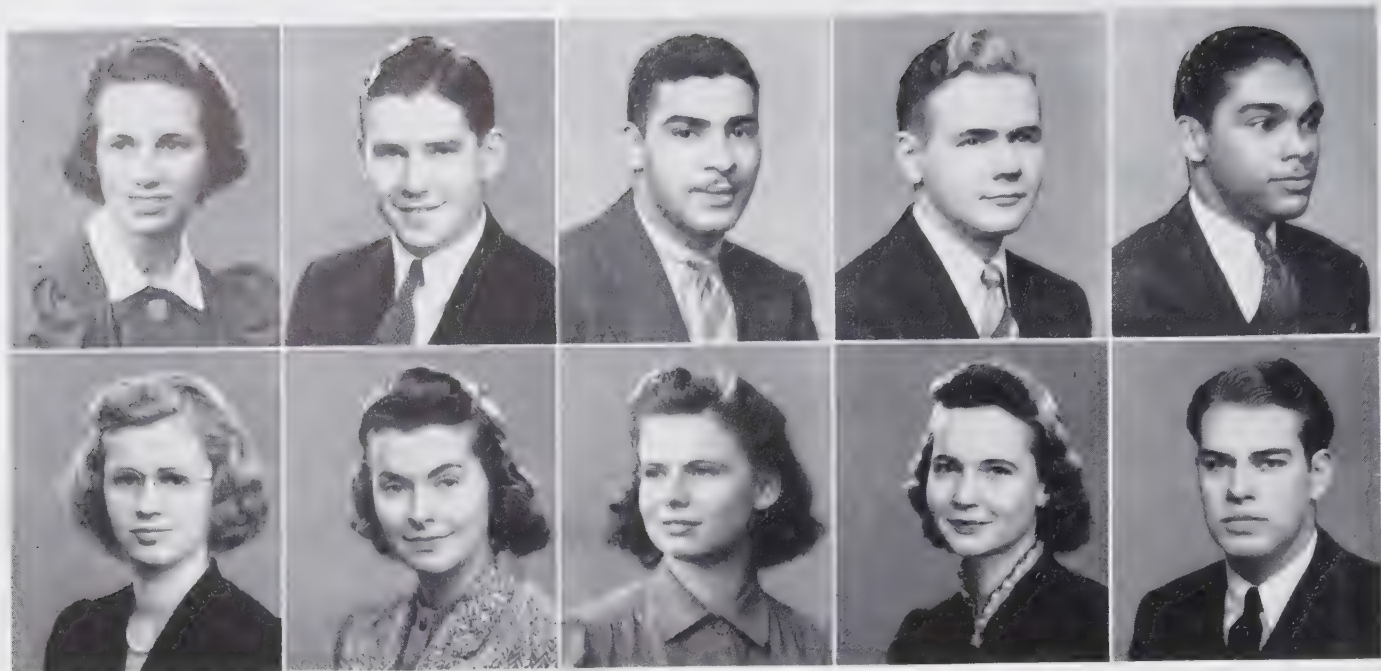

In their four years they have seen women's rules revised until now a Senior can stay out til twelve on Saturday nights. They have heard the pounding and hammering as the library assumed new proportions. They sponsored a campaign for a Student Union building.

And at the end of the four years they have handed in their theses, and given their Senior Recitals—products of their four years of work. They can't hand in their personalities to be graded, but they hope that four years of Oberlin society has broadened them, as much as it has sharpened their minds. As they leave Oberlin for a world about which nothing is certain, they can only trust that Oberlin has given them more than a diploma with which to meet their problems.

JUNIORS

OFFICERS

HAVING survived the first two years, the Juniors no longer worry about staying in school. Nor do they worry about getting out of school, the senior year is time enough for that. The junior year is, for those reasons, the most enjoyable year. It is the in-between year. The pressure has let up. It is the year when everyone not only knows how to have a good time, but has the time. Most Juniors would deny of course that they had any time, but whereas in the Freshman and Sophomore years they would have had no time for activities, in the junior year they have no time for studies.

And so the class of 1942 dances, and drinks, and bulls and studies, soaking up Oberlin tradition on the one hand, tearing it down on the other, picknicking with the Freshmen, giving its Junior Prom. In general, having a good time.

John Carlisle, President; Geraldine Schloerb, Secretary-Treasurer; Eleanor Baines and Winston Day, Social Chairmen.

SOPHOMORES

OFFICERS

RISING from the inferiority of freshmen to the superiority of sophomores, the Class of 1943 proved themselves worthy of their position (passing over the frosh girl's rebellion and the laxity of administering frosh distinctions) with a pushball contest victory, a successful kidnapping, and a more successful pajama marathon. Having finished inter-class activities, '43 now turned to intercollegiate activities, being represented by men who valiantly defended school standards (when given the chance) and for their efforts (as a complete surprise) were awarded letters and sweaters. Turning again from the field of physical prowess to fields of a more intellectual color, '43 successfully withstood the mid-year purges of the faculty, and then signed Jack Teagarten to play at one of the best dances of the year. So, filled with success, '43, with the symbol of future achievement sown indelibly on their banner, look forward, confident yet wary, to their most important and last two years in Oberlin.

TOP: Helen Stevenson and John Richards, Social Chairmen. BOTTOM: Gordon MacConachie, President; Mary Beth Hartson, Secretary-Treasurer.

FRESHMEN

OFFICERS

INTO Oberlin without the benefit of "Seaman's Statistics" came the class of 1944. They will never know how many high school valedictorians, how many high school editors, how many tiddly-winks champions their class contains. But somehow the class of '44 has fitted itself into Oberlin without the support of this mass of statistical data.

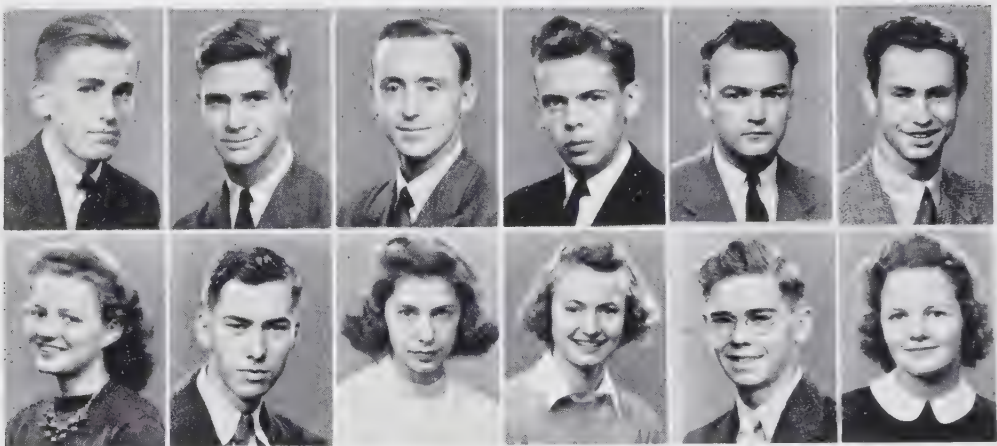

They survived a pushball defeat, and a 15-0 football defeat, both administered by the sophomores. Undaunted, the women refused to wear their bonnets, and the men kept on not wearing their Frosh caps.

At the Upperclass-Frosh picnic, and the Soph-Frosh Formal, they proved themselves quite able to cope with Oberlin socially. This ability further evidenced at the All-Freshman Circus Dance which was "more fun than a circus". That they were able to cope with Oberlin intellectually as well as socially is shown by the fact that most of them are still here.

EVERY FOURTH YEAR We Organize a Mock Convention

Freda, the first live elephant at any Oberlin convention

"I wish to nominate . . ."

IN 1940, the citizens of these United States went to the polls and elected Roosevelt II for a third term. This was contrary to the results of the Oberlin Mock Convention of the spring of 1940. This convention, under the presidency of Dick Davis, just missed Wendell Willkie by the proverbial "next ballot," and elected McNary and Martin to represent their Mock Republican ticket. Though their conclusions were proven only one-half right after the party conventions and fundamentally wrong after one Tuesday in November, the Convention, as always, proved to be an invaluable lesson in parties and politics.

The first session, held on May 10, just formulated the platform for the party chosen to be "mocked,"—the Republican Party. On the following day, platform discussion continued until supper encouraged adjournment. With a fully formulated platform, nominations were in order, and a five and a half hour session heard names like Taft, Dewey, Willkie, W. C. Fields, La Follette, and McNary. The latter won on the tenth ballot, and Joe Martin won the Vice-president nomination in a single vote, probably because his was the easiest name for tired delegation chairmen to rise and say.

No summary would be complete without mention of the hundreds of students, faculty, and business men who cooperated with the College to stage this very successful, though uninfluential endeavor. With this credit given, we pass a most enjoyable and exciting experience on to succeeding classes.

AEOLIAN

THE theme of study this year was great contemporary women, stressing those who have written about their fields, such as Dorothy Thompson, Edna St. Vincent Millay, Anne Lindbergh, Osa Johnson, and Lynn Fontaine. The year was highlighted by such things as the Christmas party just before vacation with the alumnae back to discuss the good old days, the emphasis on original work during the second semester, with an eye toward the scroll won by L. L. S. last year.

L. L. S.

THE Ladies Literary Society chose the modern novel for its theme for 1940-1941, discussing composition, style, and technique of novel writing, and reading selected excerpts. The proposed changes by the Student Council in the literary societies constitutions met with approval and aroused new interest in the program. A society writing contest was held as a preparation for the inter-society banquet, no chances being taken of losing the scroll which L.L.S. possessed this year. In addition, Hi-O-Hi suppers proved very popular, and a Christmas party with Madame Humphries taking us on an imaginary trip to Paris on Christmas Eve, set the holiday mood. Outstanding events included a formal, and a trip to Cleveland by the society and its Oberlin alumnae to see Doctor's Dilemma starring Katherine Cornell and Raymond Massey.

PHI ALPHA PHI

PHI ALPHA PHI was in grave danger of dissolving this year, until a new constitution was devised. After this threat to its security Phi Alpha Phi continued its literary activities. Each week one of its members gave a review of a current book in which some of the recent trends of serious literature were illustrated. Reviews of children's books and amusing books which were, if not especially edifying, were at least quite entertaining. Added attractions were a talk by Mrs. Lampson on the art of conversation and a trip to Cleveland to see Lunt and Fontaine in There Shall Be No Night. Reviving an old tradition, the society this year decided to order pins which are exact replicas of those owned by its charter members. Carrying on other traditions, Phi Alpha Phi collaborated with the other three literary societies to give the annual formal and spring banquet. The rec and the alumni tea rounded out a most successful and enjoyable season.

SIGMA GAMMA has devoted this year in attempting to carry out the purpose as stated in the constitution, "To encourage voluntary literary achievement by means of original composition, the study of the literary masters and the discussion by authorities in the field." We have had a few speakers, but have tried to raise the morale of the society by individual participation through book reviews, reading books together, extemporaneous speakers, and even including an "Information Please" to test our knowledge of different phases of literature. Pleasure has been mixed with the serious in our social meetings, and in all our meetings we have tried to steer clear of routine, taking from our study, no matter what it may be, only that which attracts our interest and thus has value in itself.

A. C. E.

OFFICIALLY known as the Oberlin Branch of the Association of Childhood Education, this organization of kindergarten primary majors meets monthly for discussions, led by local authorities, on nature study in the classroom, sex education for young children, and job-getting procedures. These programs are planned to stimulate the interest of the students and his place in the educational system. Highlights in the year's program—A lone male guest at the Christmas tea who rivalled the celebrated cookies and wassail for the attention of the girls, a visit in the Spring from Dr. Mary Fisher of Vassar's famed Child Study Clinic, a change in advisors when Miss Rankin deserted us for a semester at Teacher's College, and Miss Oswald joined Miss Yocom at the job of advising the majors. All in all, the majors find the A.C.E. educationally as well as socially enlightening.

PEACE AND PUBLIC AFFAIRS FORUM

THE purpose of the Forum is to provide for Oberlin students the opportunity to study and discuss current problems, both national and international, and to coordinate all organizations working in the field of current affairs.

Its program for 1940-41 dealt with both national and international affairs. In the national field, the organization was active in the presidential campaign, bringing Norman Thomas, Ohio's Governor Bricker and Cleveland's Mayor Burton to Oberlin. It also held a conference on national defense during May. In the international field two conferences were held, one on the problems of the Far East, the other on those of the Americas. For the Pan-American Conference students from many colleges gathered on the Oberlin campus and, together with commissions of Oberlin students, studied the problems of the various American nations.

Mayor Harold Burton

FORENSIC UNION

DESIGNED to give students opportunities and experience in the discussion of current public problems, the Forensic Union this year carried on a program of debates and discussions in which nearly fifty members participated.

Together with a program of inter-collegiate debates and about fifty extension discussions before various civic clubs, public forums and church groups in Ohio, there were several radio broadcasts and three debate tournaments during the year. In the country's largest annual debate tournament at Manchester, Indiana, in which sixty-seven colleges and universities participated, four Oberlin teams tied for first place. Outstanding members of the Union are selected each year for membership in Delta Sigma Rho, national honorary debating society.

THIS year we were fortunate in having two French girls studying, working, and conversing with us. Organized into six committees, which in turn presented three programs apiece during the course of the Club's activity, from October to March. This season rejoiced in a performance of Moliere by our obliging faculty, a descent of Cezanne from heaven, a mock broadcast with pertinent plugs, a play at the Art building, and recurrent imitations of our professors. ## COSMOPOLITAN CLUB

ABOVE all nations is humanity" is the motto of the Cosmopolitan Club, an organization in which more than 100 students learn tolerance and understanding of the various customs and traditions of the fifteen countries which they represent. Endeavoring also to promote international goodwill among all Oberlin students, the club sponsored activities such as the New Year's chapel and the International Day dinner.

Outstanding programs at the bi-weekly meetings of the Cosmopolitan Club this year included the opening mixer in October; the initiation at the Bosworth's; the evening around Miss Fitch's fireplace with informal discussions, an address by Dorothy Whitney of the Cleveland Round Table; the meeting at the Skjerne's where Mrs. Skjerne in colorful Danish costume told about her native country. Memorable also were Dean Wittke's speech on "We Who Built America" and President Wilkins' illustrated lecture.

OBERLIN DRAMATIC ASSOCIATION

THE Oberlin Dramatic Association's 27th season got off to a stormy start when two out of three performances of As You Like It directed by "Stan" McLaughlin were rained into the Art Building "hot house" theater. This school year, despite the temporary absence of Director McLaughlin, the ODA sailed merrily along aboard the H. M. S. Pinafore with Captains Breckenridge and Boyers at the helm. Reaching calmer (but deeper) waters, "Father" Jelliffe rocked our emotions to the tune of Cradle Song. We reached the home port at last, where "Captain" Auer gave us a shore leave known to landlubbers as Holiday. Such a conclusion came as a fitting climax to a stormy, but thoroughly pleasant journey. Credit for this voyage is due not only to those who worked on deck, but also to those who worked unseen below and behind.

PHI BETA PIGSKIN

FOR the first time in its five-year history, the Oberlin College Mummerys Club offered a prize for the script to be selected and produced as the show for 1941. "Phi Beta Pigskin," written by Don Bundy and Alan Harrow was the script chosen by the Mummerys Board and awarded the twenty-five dollar prize. Presented in Finney Chapel, March 27 and 28, this musical comedy featured student talent exclusively. Norman Lyle and Bill Hamilton played the roles of Willie Scroggs and Jane Owen, hero and heroine, respectively and respectfully.

Musical direction and arrangement were under the supervision of Charles Butler and John Worley. Jane Phillips, assisted by Peter Phillips, was in charge of the chorus work. Co-author Don Bundy was the director of the production.

DR. JACK" and his Singing Wonders, all 33 of them. Meeting three times a week, as well as when occasion demands, these warbling vocalists enjoy each other's company, and each enjoys his own singing, if no one else's. Besides these tri-weekly practices, the club gives concerts—and what concerts!—some 24 during the year.

This year the club made two trips, one intensive and the other extensive. The intensive three-day trip included a return engagement at the Andrew's School for girls, a buffet dinner with the girls with various individual return engagements arranged, another dinner and concert with more girls at the Lake Erie College for Women, and four other concerts of relatively minor significance.

The extensive trip covered five states in twelve days with two free days in Chicago and one night in Ottawa—need more be said. Choral speaking hit a new high as cries of "1, 2, 3 . . . pretty girl" etc. rent the air enroute. Wolf, the bus driver, true to his name, exemplified the club spirit to a "T". "Mr. Jack" became "Dr. Jack" as he entered his 40th year with the club. An outstanding Home Concert and a Super Formal brought the season to a close with the proverbial bang—allowing the club members to get down to their proverbial studies.

WOMEN'S GLEE CLUB

AFTER spending a hectic three weeks trying to reconcile vertical and horizontal lines to all types of feminine pulchritude, Oberlin's singing coeds finally decided upon a gorgeous creation in white chiffon as a fitting gown in which to make the season's official debut on March fifteenth. The Club took Ohio and Kentucky by storm in its ten day spring tour, fulfilling twenty-five engagements. The girls got a kick out of high school audiences and vice versa, judging from the bang with which the medley went over. New members went through the usual ridiculous initiations, to the astonishment of passers-by. The club wound up the year with concerts in the vicinity of Oberlin and a joint concert with the men and alumni during Commencement week.

THE Oberlin Conservatory Orchestra, an organization of eighty members devoted to the presentation of the masterpieces of symphonic music, concluded another successful year under the able leadership of Maurice Kessler.

During the first semester, a large audience in Finney Chapel enthusiastically applauded the opening concert of the year. The program consisted of the Symphony No. 3 by Beethoven, The Finale from Sheleroyade by Rimsky-Korsokoff, and The Three Nocturnes for orchestra by Debussy, the latter having its first complete performance in Oberlin.

Shortly before Christmas, in collaboration with the members of the Musical Union, and several guest artists, the orchestra gave a performance of Handel's Messiah. In April, the same two groups with vocal soloists, harpsichord, and an organ presented a string rendition of John S. Bach's great work The Passion according to St. John.

A C A P P E L L A

THE A Cappella Choir is composed of 60 college and conservatory students devoted to the twofold purpose of gaining a deeper understanding of sacred music and of sharing with others the artistic and spiritual message of this music.

From the beginning of the year, the Choir has rehearsed four times a week in preparation for numerous chapel appearances and for the Annual Spring Tour, which this year included Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Michigan and Ohio. The Annual Home Concert climaxed the year's activities.

Credit for the success of the present choir as well as for the preeminent position which the A Cappella has won for itself in the past must go to its dynamic director, Olaf C. Christiansen, who concludes his work in Oberlin with the end of this year. His interpretation of sacred music has been an inspiration not only to members of the choir, but also to the many audiences which have heard the A Cappella. The president of this organization is William Loerke. Other officers are Business Manager, Robert Dixon; Vice President, Alice Burr; Secretary-Treasurer, Margaret Heiby; Social Chairmen, Noel Lovett, Gordon Hoddinott; and Sergeant-at-Arms, Robert Davidson.

CONCERT BAND

THE Concert Band, under the direction of Arthur L. Williams, presented the main portion of the 15th Annual Home Concert by the Oberlin College Bands on December 7, in Finney Chapel.

The Concert Band represented Oberlin in the Intercollegiate Band Festival held at Bowling Green State University on March 14-15, joining the Western Reserve University and Bowling Green State University Bands in presenting an afternoon concert, each band playing a half hour program. Eighteen members played in the Festival Band under the direction of Mr. Gerald Prescott, Director of Bands at the University of Minnesota, for the gala evening concert.

W O M E N ' S B A N D

ONE of the highlights of the past year for the Women's Band was the appearance of the Band as a separate unit on the Fifteenth Annual Home Concert of the College Bands, December 7, in Finney Chapel. Under the direction of George E. Waln, the Women's Band played A Mayfair Cinderella by Ketelbey and the March The Vanished Army by Kenneth Alford.

With a well-balanced instrumentation of 52 players, the Women's Band has appeared at football, hockey and basketball games. A formal concert was presented in Wellington in April, and on May 4th the Women's Band opened National Music Week in Oberlin by presenting the first of the 1941 Series of Campus Concerts by the College Bands. The officers for the past year were: Wanda Pitman, President; Margaret Ruby, Secretary; Ruth Morris, Business Manager; Louise Ewers, Student Conductor; Satone Stoddard, Drum Major.

MARCHING BAND

WITH fanfare of six long slender bugles bearing crimson and gold Oberlin pennants, the Oberlin College Marching Band was led through its maneuvers on the football field last fall. Of special note were the performances with the Denison University Band at Granville, and with the Oberlin Women's Band and the Wooster Band at home football games.

Special music was provided for all home basketball games; that played at the University of Mexico game being the most outstanding. Formations on the floor using Mexican and United States flags were accompanied by a wide variety of Mexican music, including the Mexican National Anthem.

Directed by Professor Arthur L. Williams, the Marching Band presented the third Campus Concert in the 1941 series by the College Bands. The officers for the past year were: Paul Marsh, President; William Channon, Secretary; Walter Warner, Business Manager; Ralph Shell, Student Conductor; Richard Berridge, Drum Major.

NEWMAN CLUB

THE Newman Club, composed of 30 students, an organization for all Catholics attending the college, was organized in May, 1940. Intended to bring the Catholic students into closer social contact, the club has afforded excellent opportunities for recreation, and discussion groups under faculty leadership.

Outstanding speakers were: Miss Catherine Keyes, Mrs. Ruth Lampson, Dr. Clarence Ward, and Dr. Wolfgang Stechow.

At Christmas time the children from the Lorain County Home were entertained—pop-corn balls, grab-bag, and games.

Many of its members are active in the church choir, which sings DeLassus and Palestrina Masses.

OBERLIN - IN - CHINA

BREAKING all tradition, the Student Committee of the Oberlin-Shansi Memorial Association sent its Representative, Bob Porter of Oberlin, to China early in February, 1941. Scoring two firsts—one, in getting the Rep off before June, and the other, in sending a native Oberlinite—the Committee thus completed its biggest task, successfully, in spite of the difficult foreign situation.

Led by Chairman Tom Dutton, the Committee was not content to rest on its oars. It sponsored the Shansi Tea in the fall, the Shansi Day Celebration, and the Shansi Breakfast in June, and published a new and larger Dragon Tracks which went to nearly five hundred Oberlin undergraduates, as well as to alumni and friends.

ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

Carroll Shaw and Secretary Ruth

Louis Pierce
President, Alumni Association

FIRST established in 1839, as one of the first organizations of its kind in this country, the Alumni Association has constantly promoted the interests and welfare of Oberlin College.

Anyone regularly enrolled at Oberlin for a semester or more is a member of the Association with full voting privileges. There are over 26,000 living alumni, of whom about 10,000 are graduates.

With the help of about fifty alumni clubs, periodical class reunions and other class activities, the publication of a monthly magazine, and the mailing of literally thousands of letters and circulars to alumni, the Association sustains for Oberlin the interest of its alumni friends, and helps win new friends. In a recent six-month period, over 33,300 communications went to Oberlin alumni from the Alumni Office in the Oberlin Inn.

The activities of the Association are supported through annual gifts of alumni to the Oberlin Alumni Fund.

THE YMCA, with 350 members, attempts to meet the religious needs of Oberlin men through a program of education, recreation, community service, and worship. Significant this year among the activities of this purpose have been the expanded worship program, week end excursions to Chance Creek, a new program of All-Association meetings, three religious conferences, increased activity in the child study field, a group study of the human problems in economic life, deputations programs for churches in surrounding communities, and more pertinent Student-Faculty Discussion groups.

THROUGH the efforts of an active house representative group, most of the 562 members participated in some phase of the organization's program. Campus activities included student-faculty and senior women's discussions, vespers and special worship services, recreation, all-membership meetings, and religious conferences. Community service extended to the Children's Home, girl scouts, the Phyllis Wheatley Community center, and the churches. Off-campus relationships included, among other things, an unusually successful World Student Service Fund Drive.

THE dream of a student union building to house organization offices and afford recreation facilities took more tangible form this year when the social committee started a fund to evoke new interest in the project. The committee also planned activities for those remaining on campus for Oberlin's first Thanksgiving vacation. This year's edition of the Flunker's Frolic proved to be the outstanding informal social event of the year. Coeducational swimming topped off a truly superior student talent show and while the rest of the campus roller skated or swam, Frosh met Frosh at an informal dance in Rec Hall. The committee assisted the sponsoring of the special dance of the Pan-American Congress, held in Warner Gym in March. In addition to regular duties of Sunday night recs, tea dances, all-colleges, both formal and otherwise, and campus sings, the committee bought new ping-pong tables for the newly decorated Rec Hall, adding to the enjoyment of the students, socially. This merely makes manifest the attempt of the Social Committee to accomplish their aim.

NO matter how many good ideas the editor of an annual has, his book will not be a success unless its photographs are well taken, its engravings faithfully reproduced the quality of the original photographs, its printing is accurate, and its covers are striking. Perhaps the largest part of the credit for this Hi-O-Hi must go to photographers Foo Chu, Andrew Stofan, and Arthur Princehorn, to the Jahn and Ollier Engraving Company, represented by H. M. # REVIEW

Jack Hume, Editor

Frank Hanson, Business Manager

DESIRING to make the Review more than a college bulletin, the editors this year have encouraged students to help form student opinion by airing their views via the "letters-to-the-editor" department.

Whether it was war, rationed meals, politics, or the college curriculum, students had their answers ready—but not always in less than the prescribed 300 words. The editorial column at times agreed and at other times disagreed with the letter-writers.

Meanwhile, forty-five students, ranging from freshman cub reporters to junior and senior editors, were spending four days a week at "No. 13" North Main writing "all the news that will fit in print".

HONOR COURT

THE Chairman of the Honor Committee is a senior elected by the student body. The other eight members of the Committee are chosen to represent sophomore, junior, and senior classes. The Committee operates as an educational and judicial body under the provisions of the Honor Code, whereby the students have assumed the responsibility for the elimination of dishonesty from all academic work. The Committee carried on a spirited investigation of the working principles of the Honor System, and sent several recommended changes to the Faculty.

MEN'S COMMITTEE

Primarily concerned with Frosh-Soph activities, the Men's committee is also kept busy conducting the Second All-College Men's Stag, choosing a Hudson Scholar, conducting class and student council elections, and for the first time, administering the automobile regulations.

WOMEN'S SELF GOVERNMENT LEAGUE

THE Women's Self-Government League, includes every woman on campus. Headed by the executive board, the WSGL and Senate of house presidents carries on a double program of self-government and social activities. Besides the regular activities of inter-class relations and house government, the WSGL this year worked on a freshman counsellor training program and a housing survey to see what Oberlin women thought of their living conditions and what they thought could be done about them. The high spot of the year's work was the two day occupational symposium, November 29 and 30, when visiting authorities came to give the women new ideas of vocational choices and to help them in planning their courses and activities.

COUNCIL activities have certainly been worth writing about this year. Accepting the challenge of last year's Council, once on the point of dissolving because of the futility of attempted student government, this year's Council has shown what an alive, dynamic, active group can do. They began their term of office with a complete revision of the automobile rule, placing its enforcement on an Honor System basis. They were instrumental also in securing faculty revision of the liquor rule. They reorganized the administration of the Refugee Scholarship Fund. They began a thorough investigation of Oberlin's organizational structure with a view to eliminating some of the "slap-happy haphazardness".

What will always stand out as their major achievement, however, was their long battle about the dance band ruling, resulting finally in victory. Equally important, though less well-known, was their sustained effort to bring Theolog and College closer together, their complete revision of the organization of student government, and their careful and consistent handling of organization constitutions.

FOOTBALL

Wood flies through Rochester

The fall of 1910 brought power football to Oberlin for the first time in several decades as Coach Lysle Butler's steamroller ran roughshod over its four Eastern opponents only to return to Ohio where it lost most of its steam, dropping the final three games on its schedule.

George Barclay, All-American guard from North Carolina, joined the Oberlin board of strategy as line-coach and, after two weeks of practice, the Yeomen opened the season with a decisive 20-12 victory over the University of Rochester.

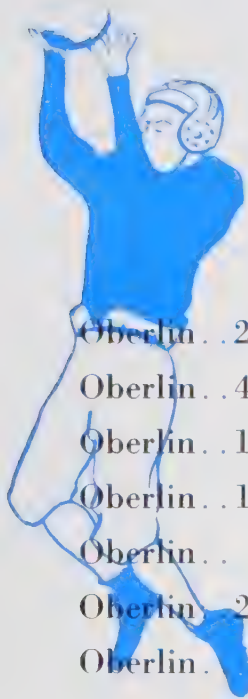

A weak Allegheny squad was blasted, 43-0, as the Yeomen gained the largest margin of victory since 1920. Lady Luck took the throttle of the steamroller as a last-minute touchdown gave the Yeomen a 13-12 victory over Hamilton. Down 13-0 at the half, the Butler-Barclay combine displayed a surprising pass-attack to come home from Swarthmore with a 14-13 victory.

Against an undefeated Wittenberg team, the Yeomen first tasted defeat, 19-7, even though they held a large statistical edge over the Lutherans. A weak pass defense gave Denison the chance to outgain and outscore the Yeomen, 34-20.

Wooster brought along a snowstorm to help them get past the weak Oberlin pass-defense and hand the Butlerites a 14-0 setback to end the season, and mark the first time that the Yeomen failed to score in 1910.

CROSS COUNTRY

THOUGH the record book shows but four victories against two defeats, the Oberlin Cross-Country team led by Captain Dick Hauser and top man Bob Wear showed up exceptionally well against real tough competition, losing to Miami University by one point, after a tough race, to Ohio State. In the finale, the Ohio Conference Meet held at Oberlin, the Kinseymen showed their stuff in fine fashion, coming off with top honors.

DESPITE their pre-season rating as one of the strongest teams ever to represent Oberlin on the soccer field, the 1940 booters failed to live up to their advance reports until the second half of the season, compiling a record of only two victories against three defeats.

A midseason shakeup in the front line, however, brought about a tremendous improvement, and the Yeomen went on to win two of their last three games. They chalked up decisive victories over Allegheny and Wheaton, and played their best game of the season in losing to the powerful Carnegie Tech team.

BASKETBALL

WITH eight lettermen returning, and three or four promising sophomores coming up, the prospects for the 1910-11 Basketball season looked rosy. The result, a record of seven wins and seven losses, was definitely rosy for an Oberlin basketball squad. Sparked by the outstanding play of Captain Jack Martin, the defensive play of sophomore "Scotch" MacConnachie, the high scoring of Captain-elect Johnny Carlisle, and the backboard control of Bob DeGroff, the Oberlin quintet proved their competence with victories over Allegheny, Otterbein, University of Mexico, Buffalo, Kenyon and Denison. In their first nine games, the four that the Butlerites lost were snatched from their grasp by a total of only nine points. Outstanding on the schedule was the enthusiastic reception which the Department of Physical Education, aided and abetted by the student body, accorded to the visiting University of Mexico team. None the less outstanding were the exciting overtime victory over the previously undefeated Otterbein outfit, and the climactic one point win over Denison, closing one of the most successful basketball seasons in recent Oberlin athletic history.

FENCING

THOUGH rather slow in starting, the 1941 fencing squad progressed steadily and ended their regular season with three straight victories to post a record of four wins to three losses. Included among their victims were Akron, Buffalo, Kenyon, and Cincinnati, while they bowed to Buffalo once and to their number one rival, Case, twice. In the Conference Meet the Yeomen placed second to Case as they took two of the three individual crowns.

Boasting but one man with any previous varsity experience, Captain Dodge, the season saw an inexperienced combine develop into one of the finest and scrappiest outfits in Oberlin's fencing history.

 Second place

CHARLEY Erdmann's third Crimson and Gold tank squad proved to be the best in the nine year history of Oberlin swimming as they mowed down all but one of their seven opponents. Captained by Art Cecil, Conference champion diver, the Yeomen lived up to all expectations as they lost only to Kenyon, Ohio Conference Champions for the past four years. During the course of the season, the Richards brothers, Hugh—Captain-elect—and Johnny, smashed all four of the Crane Pool free style records. In the Ohio Conference meet at Crane Pool, Oberlin, with 53½ points, again placed second to Kenyon who won with 72 points.

TRACK

Although 1940 Crimson and Gold track squad boasted few individual stars, the team was exceptionally well-balanced, and, under the expert coaching of Dan Kinsey, won six of its seven dual meets and went on to capture first place in the Ohio Conference meet. Ohio Wesleyan proved the only nemesis on the schedule as the Yeomen went down to a 71-60 defeat.

Captained by Dascomb Forbush, the Kinseymen opened the season with a surprise,  $58\frac{1}{2}$ - $45\frac{1}{2}$ , victory over Bowling Green in an indoor meet. The Yeomen went on to conquer Muskingum, 93-48, and place first ahead of Case and Baldwin-Wallace in a triangular affair. Joe Scott, National Decathlon Champion, garnered 34 points for Western Reserve, but the Red Cats fell, 72-59. Rochester and Wooster were crushed by the respective scores of 71-59 and  $82\frac{1}{2}$ - $48\frac{1}{2}$ .

In the Ohio Conference meet, at Bowling Green, the Kinseymen edged Toledo,  $43\frac{1}{2}$ -43, while Baldwin Wallace finished third with 41 points.

Led by Co-captains Al Dibella and Bob Wear, the sixteen returning lettermen, including Jim Malone, who was out of school last year, will be aided by a strong group of sophomores and the Kinseymen have high hopes for an undefeated season this year.

GOLF

Handicapped by the weather and a lack of experience the Oberlin Golf team, captained by Ken Macrorie and coached by Professor Boyers had trouble with four of their seven opponents, winning two and tying the last game. The Boyermen bowed in the opener to Kenyon by one point, with Macrorie as the main point winner. Recovering quickly, the golfers eked a sloppy victory over Mount Union, playing on a sloppy course. Beaten by Wooster, the Yeomen came back again to beat Denison, then lost to the Big Red on the next day. Finishing a spotty season, the team tied a strong Toledo outfit, but didn't do too well in the Conference Tournament. Though no lettermen are returning, Coach Boyers will build his team around an experienced nucleus who have shown up very favorably in intercollegiate and intramural competition.

TENNIS

Led by Captain Al Seibens, the Oberlin Tennis team rolled up an envious record of seven victories against one loss. That loss was inflicted on the Butlermen by Kenyon College, of Don McNeill, National Amateur Champion, fame. Drawing the largest home crowd of the season, McNeill put on an exhibition of championship play defeating Captain-elect Cecil in straight sets. With Cecil alternating with Siebens in the number one spot, and neophytes Dick LeFevre and Herb Hansen improving in both singles and doubles, the Yeomen ended the season by finishing second to Kenyon in the Ohio Conference Tournament at Kenyon.

BASEBALL

THE 1940 edition of the Crimson and Gold baseball team experienced a rough season as they lost ten out of the fourteen games on their schedule. Their biggest trouble seemed to be in the field as they were consistently charged with errors throughout the season in spite of the best infield combinations in years. Many of the misplays were credited to a pitching staff, which though containing some fine throwing talent, was pretty weak on the defense. Beaten by Otterbein, Muskingum, Toledo, Wooster and, in a double header, Rochester, the Yeomen interspersed among the defeats a double victory over the Kenyon Lords, a one-run decision of the Ohio Wesleyan Bishops, and the traditional win over the Alumni.

In spite of the unimposing record which the ball team showed, nothing can be said against their fight and spirit. Captain Rudy Schmidt, diminutive keystone sacker, proved his right to his office, bracing and sparking the team when things looked darkest. Not to be forgotten as stars in their own right were Oberlin's versatile seniors: Catcher Bob Kretchmar, Infielder Chuck Kent, Outfielder Sparky DiBiasio and Pitcher Bill Yocom, all of whom kept plugging for what seemed to be a lost cause.

The outlook for the 1941 season seems brighter with two newcomers in the infield, and new outfield and four or five pitchers. With a little experience, this team might become a winning club.

INTRAMURAL COMMITTEE

UNDER the able faculty supervision of Guy Throner, Director of Intramurals, intramural athletics again achieved their stated purpose of offering a sport for every man to participate in. To evaluate the worth of intramural athletics, imagine Oberlin without the three house leagues of football, basketball, volleyball, and softball, climaxed by final games which are exciting, if not as well played as some varsity engagements. What would satisfy the everpresent desire of every man for competition if classes didn't vie for championship in most all accepted sports? The answer is obvious and credit for the answer goes not only to the board consisting of the indispensable Miss Parsons of the Intramural Office, the very efficient Senior Managers, Bob Lewis and Bob Dodge, but also to the underclassmen—the scorers, the timers, the referees and the players. Worthwhile in every respect the Oberlin system of intramural athletics deserves continuous praise.

INTRAMURAL

BESIDES the usual activities occurring at Intramural Festivals—the All-Sports Trophy Award, the gym class exhibitions, the inter-house relay, and an exhibition of gymnastics; innovations this year included weightlifting, individual ringwork, difficult feats on the parallel bar, the horizontal bar and the mats, and most unusual and entertaining of all, the “Study in Brawns,” depicting in still life various phases of all Oberlin sports.

F O R   E V E R Y   W O M A N

OFFERING a wide variety of sports, the Women's Department of Physical Education attempts to extend to all women of the College and Conservatory the opportunity for physical activity. Their program includes both individual and team sports, the latter being sub-divided into inter-class and inter-house competition. This program carries on throughout the school year, with the type of sport depending on the season.

In the fall, the sharp crack of the hockey stick against the hard ball competes with the soft twang of the tennis ball meeting the racquet. But opportunity does not cease here, since golf, volley ball, hiking, and archery claim their measure of attention. When days grow shorter and colder, indoor sports come into the limelight, offering swimming, basketball, badminton, fencing, bowling, and dancing. When the newness of a bright, if wet, Oberlin spring calls for different sports, golf, tennis, archery, and volley ball are resumed with gusto, and baseball is a welcome addition.

Points may be earned by the individual for skillful participation in certain sports, by which she may first earn her numerals and later her membership in the O. C. Club. Emphasis is placed not so much on points accumulated as on enjoyment and benefit received from active participation.

W. A. A.

THE Women's Athletic Association offers to Oberlin women opportunities to participate in different sports of varying seasonal interests. W. A. A. members having earned numerals in team sports or in individual sports have placed the emphasis this year on strengthening the managerial system by awarding numerals to managers, and by organizing the Sports Board which provides for joint meetings of the Executive Board, the managers of the different sports, and the house sports chairmen.

O. C. CLUB

THE O. C. Club is composed of those girls who have earned a total of five hundred points, accumulated from successful participation in certain individual and team sports. In recognition of this extensive activity, the girls are eligible for membership in the O. C. Club. Outstanding among the varied activities of the O. C. Club are its initiations and its annual alumni breakfast, the latter held during Commencement Week. Activities this year were ably handled by the club's President, Skeets Hummel.

WITH the thermometer dropping steadily, and wind sweeping across the field, a large crowd of damp-footed spectators watched Annapolis down West Point, 3-2, in the twentieth annual all-star hockey game. Although the field had been scraped, there were patches of icy snow, which made dribbling difficult.

ARMY started the scoring in both halves, with Sue Kelley putting through two breathtaking goals. Navy, however, led by Captain Ann Jewett, followed close behind, keeping the score 2-2. With only a few minutes left to play, Jean Stanicek got the ball and, a clear field ahead, dribbled down to Army's goal. As the Navy player shot, goalie Captain Peg Levi, trying to kick the ball out, slipped on a patch of ice, and Annapolis' winning point rolled between the posts.

MODERN DANCE

UP until 2nd Semester, the group of 35 girls, was ably directed by Mrs. Conna-belle Shaw. However, after the holidays, Mrs. Shaw found herself unable to continue in her capacity and so handed the reins of the group to Dotty Jacobson and Peter Phillips who took charge for the rest of the school year. At Christmas time, before Mrs. Shaw's retirement, the group, in cooperation with the A Cappella Choir, conducted a Christmas Vespers service which was again well received.

YALE-PRINCETON! the greatest all-women event of the year! When on the night of March 20th, the shouting was over, the noise had subsided into history, tradition had been overthrown with a Princeton victory. The victory, however, was not an easy one for Captain Wichman's Tigers since the Bulldogs, led by Captain Hummel proved an equal match up to the last few seconds of play. But the game provided only part of the excitement. When house stunts, offering an opportunity to every girl to participate in the evening's activities were presented, Baldwin walked off with the plaque. At the half, before next year's officers for the women's organizations were announced, the cheer leaders and band made manifest the spirit of the evening.

THE Oberlin women didn't participate in the National Telegraphic Swimming Meet this year for the first time in several seasons, but concentrated on intra-mural swimming. The main event of the fall season, was the second annual house swimming marathon. The winners of the race from Liverpool to New York were the Tank Hall swimmers, winners of the 1939 marathon.

Three inter-class meets were held during the winter season. Both the sophs and seniors gave the freshmen a close race in the first meet. In spite of being far outnumbered, the seniors took the second meet from the sophs. In the deciding meet, the frosh won the cup from the Class of '41 by an eight point margin.

FORMATIONS

Pain and Pleasure, Study and Sleep

MORE time than he spends at meetings, football games, and dates, the Oberlin man spends at home. For Oberlin life is not totally different from life at other colleges. Even here, a man must sleep, and eat, and shave and bull. Though fraternities are outlawed, men are permitted to form self-perpetuating houses or spontaneous groups which allow them to live with men of their own temperament. Thus Oberlin men enjoy the advantages of good fellowship obtained under a fraternity system without the disadvantages of misplaced loyalty.

WE LIVE

With the cream of the houses going to Freshmen, and the Seniors and Juniors picking over what's left, the Sophomore woman may not know where she is going to live until she comes back to school in the fall. She will probably find herself three blocks from the campus, eating in all-girl dining hall. Her only consolation is that the "sophomore slump" is not her fault but her house's. Regardless of the house, however, dormitory life is fun, as is shown by these pictures.

FRENCH HOUSE

"IT'S no noisier than a city", philosophized Bee to Fuddle, referring to French House quiet hours, "and much more unique!"

"Unique" is the word for the noise of French House—feminine shrieks at the discovery of stacked rooms and bebe shots beneath neatly made beds; masculine roars at the sight of deflated bike tires; cheers which greet Madame's hearty "God bless you" when her girls put something over on the boys; delighted squeals when Madame holds a tea party in her parlor for the girls and their little dolls; French carols echoing down the hall as girls in white troop down to Christmas breakfast; slurping as we eat the onion soup that is a French House special. More specific of the familiar sounds are Dot and Ludie's early morning conversations, Penny and Bobby's screams at the "Hermit", Becky's electric alarm clock which can ring forever and usually does, the squeaky board in Martha's and Winnie's ceiling, the yell of Crowley, Mim, and Dietzie for a fourth at bridge, Merce and Piggy's loud, red "Dr. Dentons" that can be heard at the other end of the hall. "Well," said Fuddle, "Not MUCH noisier."

NOBLE

NOBLE, next to the last stop on East College Street, is the home of continuous bridge games, rabid knitters and evanescent house-boys. Sunday mornings we eat breakfast in pajamas, curled up in front of the warm fire. In the evening after a typically filling Cranford Sunday dinner of chop suey, we self-reliantly cook our own supper.

Firm believers in the old wheeze about the "best way to a man's heart . . .", we demonstrated our ability with a spaghetti supper. We escaped from the kitchen later in the year, and took these same men, at least some of the same men, on a sleigh ride. We held our teas and recs with Cranford and in the spring consented to give a formal with them. It was a good year even if the refrigerator wouldn't refrigerate.

The Elmwood charm is not fatal but unique. Elmwood does not build its hospital record around the common flu. Elmwood breaks ankles and collar bones to get in the hospital. Elmwood postpones its open house not because it cannot decide on decorations, but because of the plague (chicken pox). Elmwood has athletes, too, outstanding in ping-pong, alibis, and front-porch activities. Elmwood is unique.

BASTILLE

BASTILLE claims thirteen of the rowdiest freshmen ever conceived. Anarchy is our by-word, study our Waterloo, dates our Nemesis, and vacations our staff of life. We won both swimming and basketball championships, but the most adequate proof of our physical prowess is the fear with which Embassy and Pillory view us.

ARNOLD'S

TWELVE transfers from eleven states—with a disconcerting habit of marching en messe to dinner, our interests are as varied as our actions are united: we swim, knit, play bridge, sketch, and listen to records. "Mamma" Arnold is one of the gang; our "B. F.," Peter sent us all valentines and Billy is our mascot.

BOTTOM ROW: E. Hoskins, P. Smith, A. Hickok, M. Frojen. SECOND ROW: S. Arnold, E. Kattell, D. Brown, B. Twyeffort, D. Hvambal. THIRD ROW: H. Bluhm, M. Gooden, G. Greene, B. Dutemple.

DELTA LODGE

THE House of Good Fellowship, coordinated by its catalytic symbol, has proved to be more than a finish line to East Kipton Mile. As headquarters of freshman hazing, it overcame its distance from the starting point; transformed into Club Delta, it became the center of unlimited enjoyment; (as a meeting place of faculty and friend, unique again in its Club Delta guise, it personified its good fellowship;) as the home of the illuminating and up-to-date Record book, it jests and jeers at its own mortal efforts; as an abode for athletes, it reflects in the glory of its numerous "O" boys, both sophomores and seniors, not to mention the two cheerleaders; as an habitation, it has broken chairs, broken walls, broken beds, and trophies; as a field of battle, it was full of mice, now just broken traps; as a social club, its lights burn far into the night as the P. D. O. N. club discusses its next moves, or studies prove to be more magnetic than bridge. Indeed, its more than a framework at the end of the mile, its the House of Good Fellowship wherein all things begin.

ALLENCROFT

A LLENCROFT, in the midst of a cluster of dormitories on South Professor Street, is as picturesque as its inhabitants are prominent. The ivy-covered, red brick house is surrounded by much foliage, many benches, and grape arbors, which make up one of Oberlin's niciest yards. The roof offers one of Oberlin's more choice views. The girls do their relaxing here at the same time they are cultivating those delicious, toast-colored complexions.

Inside the aspect is somewhat different. Silent as a tomb in the day-time, at night the house assumes the appearance of a three-ring circus. In the hall dance steps are made and murdered during the course of one G. Miller program, and ladylike wrestling matches threaten the safety of every passerby, while in the rooms the Hermit holds the rest of the girls spellbound.

In spite of a diversity of interests and house-mothers that come and go, the Allencroft girls have that feeling of unity and compatibility which makes for a successful year, and they regretfully bequeath their house to next year's Sophomore class.

NEXT to Goodrich and fifty leaps from breakfast, Gulde stands—yellow with age, bright with a new bicycle rack for Tumbleweed, Pippet and the ever-straying Prodigal. Inside, thirty-three girls personalize the piano, crack ping-pong balls, coax rhythm from an ancient vic, and do their “knittin’ for Britain.” They have their share of porch-minded people, fire-escape fiends, and parlor personages. They advocate Sunday cleansing of clothes rather than souls; Count Basie between symphonies; house-wide borrowing from a Fifth Avenue-er’s wardrobe; an obliging Handy service; and a swell directoress to top it all. Thirty-three to a pack—they satisfy.

REGENT

BOTTOM ROW:

D. Chaffee
A. Dibella

SECOND ROW:

R. Selle
F. Bloomhardt
D. Monroe

REGENT is the home of many radios and seven men. Selle, master towel flicker, is, through fines, the donor of many new books to the libe. Munroe is a master of the art of taking care of babies, young ones of course. Dibella runs his fastest race at night, but manages to break records on the track. Chase buys records instead of breaking them. Bloomhardt wants to be alone. Chaffee sleeps, eats and bathes, while the unphotographed Shober saves basketball games.

LAUGHLIN'S

WITH reverence for balustrades, stained glass, and radiators staunchly Victorian, we rehabilitate Laughlin's. We remember the violent ride in Bob's Coupe to Lake Erie; our first view from tiny dormer windows over chimney-pots and slate roof; the frenzy of distinguishing two Jeans, Janes, and Carols from Alice and Ibby; and our solemn boast, "Raymond Grahm Swing slept here". Thanks for services rendered.

DICKINSON'S

THE personnel: Prexy "Fuzzy" — house banker; "Little Gordie"—his last minute showers; "Volatile" Van Horn—studies, but Lord knows when; "Helpful Hirschie"—latent statesman, German tutor at large; "Steady Stead-a-Study" Coplin—camera conscious; "Pertinacious Potsy"—Chance Creek chef; "Healthy" Hanna—house bowler; "Doctor" Swift—an uncle and an idiom for every occasion.

RALSTON'S

EIGHT Ralston men — eight revealing books. Smith's Theory of Learning, Davidson and Stothoff's Symphony, Opera, and Jazz Band, Long's Tympani and Tympany, Twelve Volumes of Horrors in Honors or Six Weeks Work in One by Pickel, How the Blond Won by Hammerle, The Diplomat Plays Poker by Gleason. WE, forty Senior women, consider our Baldwin ideal, revel in its spaciousness after three years apprenticeship in assorted sizes of dorms, and enjoy its centralness after having served our time as bicycle commuters.

After dinner we find our gracious director chatting with a group over demi-tasse. In the Blue Room our promising young composer is playing his own exquisite "Spanish Dance." From the Green Room jeers and heckling warn us that another Baldwin Bridge Battle is under way. Here and there are waiting lines for the funnies or Life.

BALDWIN

WE may linger around the fire on Sunday evenings bathed in candlelight and Brahms, but we find Burt's "Wake Up and Swing" echoing from the rafters next morning.

Our social activities have been successful; a Nervous Rec in the fall, a formal for which we transformed the Inn into an observatory with the Oberlin skyline silhouetted against a starry sky, and we gave the Martha Washington tea that has been evolving through Baldwin generations.

A commendable spirit of cooperation prevailed among the daily letter writers to save wear and tear on the Baldwin-Post-Office road, (known as Widow's Walk).

CHURCHILL

WHEN the last bell at Talcott rings, Churchill exits from Churchill en masse, flinging on their roommates' coats, tripping over untied shoelaces or cursing badly rusted zippers that don't work. Nor is this whirlwind motivated only by hunger, for inside of Churchill, even including the goldfish in the bathtub, the bluing and starch in the bath water, and the odor of "Mother" Burr's incense permeating the house, pandemonium reigns. These ambitious frosh can't seem to find time to study during the day, so not infrequently alarm clocks are heard during the less popular hours of the morning, and then woe be unto the setter. We have our quota of both Con. and college girls, who mix their interests to create a healthy, if noisy, atmosphere.

We owe much to "Mother" Burr who spends her free time running downtown for us after hours, and we are indeed indebted to our "Auntie" Janes, who give us excellent advice on a multitude of subjects, and sometimes prove its worth by demonstrating what they mean. All in all, Churchill has symbolized its name by making itself a true "sanctuary on the top of a hill of freshman houses."

KEEP COTTAGE

WE started the year with 51 girls mostly Juniors, about two-thirds of them being old members. Second semester saw one transfer to somewhere south leaving "Demmy" with the problem of making a too-small double into a too-large single. Animal minded, the female psych. majors delight in live rats and monkeys, others of us are satisfied with the stuffed variety. For those that are neither of these, cockroaches, running around the kitchenette and wash-rooms! There are too many "steadies" for the limited cold weather facilities; couples huddle in the dark corners of the porch or on the "Zeller" stairs. Couples try to make the fireplace room darker, but are usually defeated by a too-efficient bell girl or matron. It is most difficult to study late when the roommate is sleepy because there is always a stray Senior or two on the couch with her man. A Halloween supper—bobbing for apples, dipping for cider, and eating spaghetti out of a cocoa pitcher with an egg beater; the "Ball of Yarn" rec in the parlors and dining room; a get-acquainted for Freshman girls.

BOTTOM ROW: M. K. Culley, J. Stanicek, H. Tomkins, R. Demarest, B. Zeller. SECOND ROW: E. McCutcheon, M. Green, M. Joslin, M. Belknap, H. Strong, G. Colson. THIRD ROW: M. Thompson, A. Homman, C. ## KEEP COTTAGE

TEA for Freshman girls; Christmas formal at the Inn; Christmas party with a "Beauty"-ful Santa; girls in white blouses and dark skirts at the Christmas candlelight breakfast with the Capps and the Jelliffes. Valentine supper, another rec in March, and the annual Daffodil Open House Tea with a new silver bowl from cousin Alice.

THE girls were glad to feed the starving French babies, glad because the ration meal always brought a handful of sympathetic men to grace the dining hall every Tuesday evening.

Oddities: man on the fire escape; trying to make birthday cakes from home go around for all fifty girls. Temperamental water and heating systems, the water is hot the day after the formal; pussy-footed janitor; no quiet hours on the third floor in spite of its predominance of house officers. Snowballs from H. S. kids give the wintry days extra zing.

PEABODY

PEABODY HOUSE . . . here is its story: Each man has a woman to add to his glory. Phillips reveals his life in his sleep, Pickett and Farnsworth are IN pretty deep, Bernstein and Kenney are rapid go-getters, while Martin and Beal are contented with letters. Our Prexy, Cal Rogers, is all that is needed. Peabody's love life has now been completed!

BOTTOM ROW: C. Rogers, M. Bernstein, M. Pickett. SECOND ROW: I. Phillips, C. Farnsworth, K. Martin.

TWO ELMS

DIRECTLY across from the Dean of Men, Two Elms wisely spends its Sunday mornings quietly, a habit which suggests studying but permits sleeping. From Monday to Saturday, Two Elms is enlivened by limericks and exercises climaxed by short naps. We can't seem to find time for studying, so we leave it to Sunday mornings.

PEAKE INN

PEAKE INN and listen to us chatter. "Brr! Sands forgot the fire this morning!"; "Hey, Woomey!"; "Hang up, wifey!"; "Yea, verily"; "I wish Delta would get off the line"; "This is Al Seely speaking. ## TANK HALL

TANK means home to forty-seven girls and the ghost of Olga, and meals to thirty-four boys—alas, how few! Tank means to us the campfire, the roasted weenies and marshmallows at Casty's Grove. It means a formal faculty reception in the fall, and splashing through to first place in the swimming marathon; numerous ping-pong and bridge tournaments; continually planning sleigh rides—never holding them; Sunday night's cheese sandwiches which cause a mass rush on Monday mornings to the "Dreams Interpreted" book. Tank means: Raymond scrubbing the floors, sweeping the porch, and polishing the vestibule; boys eating and girls apparently dieting; endless talk about calories taking place between raids down the back stairs for extra desserts, and the talk about exercise between bites of chocolate; Emily Post and the Dean of Women at Illinois ("a place of refinement at all times").

TANK HALL

LIVING near the skating rink and studying to three-quarter time; "Esquire"; the broom by the front door; neatness. Tank also has handsome waiters who deserve a sentence of their own for inviting a different girl in the dining room to eat with them in the kitchen every week. Found at Tank: Hugh relaxing at the foot of the stairs on the night of a formal; Jan knitting three sweaters in four weeks; Wolf improvising on the piano all week, and Phyllis playing on Sundays; superman Drummie "Check on that!"; bridge upstairs and down; Ann and everyone else knitting socks; four girls turning red-headed overnight after an encounter with ammonia and a bottle of peroxide; Micky and six dates an evening; Ginnie and Peg paying tribute to that low-down St. Louis Woman; no one leaving for 8 o'clocks until Griffin has said, "It's time to Shine!"

THE pounding of the plumber at four in the morning, the clink of the nickels in the coke machine, the pounding of the type writers in the wee hours, it's the Gables noise. Gables—the house of a million bridge games, emerged with a tournament, but it was the “just for fun” bridge, from Sunday to Sunday, from morning to morning, from 5 minutes to five hours—the “just for fun” bridge that was so typically Gables. Gables—the house of anarchy, failed to take its fire drills seriously, in fact, failed to take them at all. Gables—the house with a half hour philosophy, couldn't spare the half hour to go to chapel, couldn't lengthen it at 10:30. Gables—the house of benevolence and graciousness, invited the four little Resars to the annual Christmas party.

GREY GABLES

GABLES gang got a new perspective as they realized that it is more fun to give than to receive.

Gables—the house of parties, substituted silk stockings for anklets and high heels for saddles, and gave a “smoothie” rec. They found time at exam week to dress up in formals, but though they could beat the exams, they could merely succumb to the flu. Gay and lovely was the Porch Party—floating dresses in a garden of light and shadow—a perfect expression of the Gables mood.

Through it all, the Dudley's have been Mother and Daddy in more than name. As always to the girls who live there, Gables was not just a house, but a home.

THE JOLLY ROGERS

UNDER the benevolent guidance of Captain Rogers and his mate, the Jolly Rogers cruised through a slappy, happy year. Hay-rides, Hi-O-Hi banquet, stags, and dates! Athletes, Romeos, Phi-Betes, and De Mott. Ten men in one bathtub—and—please, no talking in the halls. Our fathers and mothers were cousins but we're all right . . . hum!

RENNEBOHM, our prexy, a true Noble fan . . . Bonnar, the bowler, wow what a man . . . Everson, our chef is a Yankee born . . . Martin, the musician, moans on his horn . . . Sutton, our athlete wins honors galore . . . Ballin, consultant, office first floor . . . Gutsche, the chemist, knows all and more . . . Christie, the poet thinks he composes . . . ## THURSTON'S

THIRTEEN boys of different tastes make up this house of variety where Perkins bellows at Whikehart and, Skyrn drawls at Brown; where Wells sings while DuLac lives at Gables; where Bossle exercises to the jabbering of Schaeffer; where Galasso and Ross are content with memories; where Bartleman argues Bess out of bed so he can clean; where Sellers fiddles while the house lights burn.

SHURTLEFF

STILL the self-designated Home of Eminent Women, and this year we can prove it (at least temporarily) by the Yale-Princeton Stunt plaque that hangs on one of our hallowed walls . . . still the house where we have to allow ten minutes to get to Peters at a dead run, which is why we don't get fat (well, some of us) on our good food . . . We've broken a few traditions though—this year we're a mixed house . . . this year, too, we get sleep . . . But one of our traditions that is as firmly rooted as the three venerable maples which grace our front walk (just at the turn, where you have to shift into second) is the beauty of our location, for we have a garden, a stream, a wood, and a hill all our own.

Well hardly!

DASCOMB

BRIEF pause for station identification. We take you now to Dascomb cottage in the fall where summer tans, bleached hair and smiles are greeted by a brand new door (one coat of paint requisite). We hear cries of "O rapture!" and no wonder, for inside—carpeting of royal wine and inviting blue repose "Please do not sit on my arm, and I will think you a person of incredible charm." Surrounded by the pale tinted walls and soft cushioned rugs—new faces, familiar faces and the echoes of last year's laughter, rested, eager for what is to come, for life, for love, dreams, and—who knows? The year passes on—new tasks and new friends recapture the refrains of the past. Time sweeps by and faces become wan, eyes tired, from the battle of bluebooks never ceasing. (brief pause for station identification) The bursting buds and the morning doves, the bittersweet of commencement—the memories of tomorrow lie in the passing of today, and we veil the sombre and sane with pure light-hearted fancy.

DASCOMB

AND now we take you behind the scenes where we find tremendous activity, resembling a department store in full swing, with forty-eight clerks—a varied assortment—and a dependable department head. As we move along with the crowd, we hear “Hiya kid!” and “Watch your step!” and the guide starts intoning with monotonous regularity—“Counter one, open house special: cigarettes, candy, and men upstairs. Counter two, plumbing repairs, housecoats tripped to Tenney. Counter three, knighthood flowers, the bloom is gone, but the memory lingers on. Counter four, kitchenware and casseroles.

BOTTOM ROW: M. Hawkinson, M. Hallawell, G. Chap, M. Hummel, P. Levi. SECOND ROW: P. Currier, L. Stevenson, C. Suter, J. Thom, L. Haskins, H. Adair. THIRD ROW: D. Jacobson, E. Jensen, J. Mayer, K. COUNTER five, unmentionables. (brief pause for station identification) Counter six, musical oddities topped by a bagpipe-ukelele duet. Counter seven, medical accessories: two mumps and some flu. Counter eight, Diner's Valentine Delight: Amazonic struggles with loaded trays and aproned waiters deploring “dish-pan hands.” Counter nine, tri-daily sale of kibitzers with a special discount for second floor Dascomb. Counter ten, Special by Esky: streamlined formal—blue skirts swishing and tails awhirl. Counter eleven, bell girls dilemma—lights out.”

And so we too have finished our tour. (brief pause for station identification) We take you now to . . .

CRANFORD

WHAT'S home to forty-one of Oberlin's happiest Con and College lasses? Where has the tradition of smoothness recently been ploughed under by an influx of sophomores, juniors, and a senior who are more intent on fun and friends? (And confidentially, have found lots of both!) Where do we miss out on dessert if we wear dirty old saddle shoes, and socks to dinner? Where do the waiters wear bow ties and never spill pie, lamb stew, or cole slaw? Where did the same forty-one come forth in golden harmony at midnight with "I Love You Truly"—all for their beloved head waiter? Where do national amateur tennis champions show up at mixers? Where do red-headed boys wear tuxes and red carnations to dinner—all because of Willkie? Where is there continually a battle royal twixt Brahms, Mozart, and Tchaikowsky and Miller, Lunceford, and Dorsey? Where did someone trip on the edge of a homemade dissecting tray and send a cat brain rolling down the very best first floor stairs?

CRANFORD

WHERE are hockey, basketball, swimming, volley ball, and bridge just daily routine? Where do we have a pay telephone all our own that helps us keep tabs on men in Fall River, Athens, Woodbury, and Columbus? Where do rotten oranges hardly ever leave spots on the wall paper, and where does studying never interfere with frequent sessions of food and gab? I ask of you, where would Basil rather have a nice hot bath and spend the night than anywhere else on campus? Where can we sleep through an 8 o'clock and still get enough breakfast to see us safely through a 9 o'clock? Where doesn't a Hoolihan diamond stand a chance against a Vanderbilt club? Where else would you expect to stumble over tradition or a coconut ball every time you round a corner? Well, Cranford, I guess!

ORDINARILY men of cool judgment and discretion, we of North Noah found our patience tried by numerous raids upon our barracks by certain unmentionable characters. MIDNIGHT gorges, lethargic athletic managers, political harangues, blackjack till two, visitors for Trezise, and one lone, squeaky shower; these are the symbols of Second West, the only organization on campus to nominate officers by lot. Second West is also known for such picturesque nick-names as "Four-No-Trump" Pearson, "Adonis" Huggins, and "Rev. Bro." Gibbin.

LED by Don Juan, our "Martyred" counselor, and "Rodger the Lodger", Fourth Floor successfully defended itself against the whole M. B. "Wish I was home more often. Let's see, what's that fellow's name with the curly hair? Well anyway there's Wilson and Vail, chemists and churchgoers. And Hamilton, damn chambermaid. Three more, Hayden, Faflick, and Johnson—4xyz vs. Genesis 11, what an argument! And there's McKerrow and Peterson blowing those horns, Webb trying to shut them up. Chantrey's drawl, 'I'm in'. Gulick, the peach; Bockstanz, Glen Gray athlete; Platt and Brashares, studying all night. And there's Hopkins and Alles, chess player and drawing card. And who else? Kaufman, a social genius. But that guy with the curly hair, who IS he? Might as well forget him. The dean doesn't expect too much of me anyway. He knows I'm busy."

MAY COTTAGE

TRAMP! Tramp! Tramp! Seventy-five pairs of rubber boots carry seventy-five May maids down the steps of May Cottage in the diverse direction of their eight-o'clocks. The four corners of the earth are well represented by the May Cottagers who hail from Florida, California, South Dakota, and Oklahoma, Brazil, Germany, and Holland. Saddle shoes shuffle downstairs to those famed pancake and syrup breakfasts, and to lunches of corn chowder, biscuits, and honey butter (the subject of many an indiscreet pun.) Shrill titters re-echo during dinner when a certain freshman lassie wanders vaguely into the room repeating in anguished gulps, "Dear God, please make him call me," in an anxious plea for a call from her beloved.

MAY COTTAGE

THE Election Day "Rec" features the campaign propaganda "Won't You Be My Candi-'Date?", while Valentine's Eve finds the May "Rec" the proud possessor of a huge red heart inscribed with the words "'May' I be your Valentine?". The signs "Ego amo te" and "Je vous adore" no doubt give vent to the unexpressed sentiments of many a couple as they waltz to the music of Ad Mueller. But more than anything else May is proud. She is proud of her defiance of the Sophomore class when she refused to wear the bonnets of serfdom. She is proud of the tall, white-coated men who wait on her tables. She is proud of her dining room—the largest on campus. She is proud of her counsellors who, torn between a desire for leniency and a necessity for discipline, often take the lenient path. But most of all, May, this year, is proud of the way she has become a part of Oberlin, fitted into the Oberlin way of life.

MAY COTTAGE

EXCITEMENT reaches a high pitch when a goldfish, after spending an unnerving two days circling the interior of Mrs. Vera Nash Locke's rose bowl, calls it a day, and peacefully passes away. The four frosh class officers and two of the 3 highest ranking frosh scholars dine at May to the great edification of us, their colleagues. May also controls a monopoly on the "Pinafore" cast as we claim three of the leads for our own. However, the overwhelming atmosphere of May seems to have jinxed two of our May mates who broke a leg apiece when the winter snows descended upon Oberlin.

May emerged victorious from the Freshman Week Competition, and its seventy-five odd inhabitants, may still be heard humming snatches of "Night and Day," and giving vent to loud shouts of "The cream of '44 is lodged behind May's door! We're on the spot and are we hot! Just listen to us roar . . . Oberlin!" Poinsettias and pine boughs keynote the Christmas Formal Tea as freshmen dash hither, thither, and yon in search of belated guests, while consuming quantities of brownies, nuts, and pecan balls.

TALCOTT HALL

THIS year Talcott's walls bulged under the strain of furnishing rooms in which girls feebly attempted to study, gallantly attempted to correspond, and just attempted to primp. Here at the corner of South Professor and College streets, the inmates—yes inmates—enjoyed many a gala time, one of the first of which was a Halloween micer at which the girls had to do all the chasing. That's Leap Year for you. Of course the Talcott Formal, with the South

Sea Island theme was the best on campus. With balloon palm trees, fresh coconut to eat, and prickly leis, as the result of several weeks' frantic planning, Talcott whirled blissfully to Ad Mueller's band. Though it is a miracle that 75 formals got pressed with only one pressing room to a floor.

Neither was Christmas omitted from the social calendar. After a delectable tree and an enormous Santa (courtesy of three pillows), the season was brought to a peak by five-o'clock carolling and a candle-lit breakfast.

TALCOTT HALL

DURING the second semester a colossal hayride, a St. Patrick's Day tea, and a super Open House kept Talcott all agog. Just ask those who went for further details.

But the Talcott girls do not stay shut up in Talcott. Because of the demand for the Talcott dining room, they "exchange" more than any other house. Symposiums, Sports, Reunions, all serve to drive the Talcotters from the "best dining room on campus."

Gee—it would seem that with all this social activity, not much studying would be accomplished. However, we think that upon investigation you'd find that the Talcott gals managed to wear out a goodly number of books—in one way or another!

TALCOTT HALL

THEN along came exams—and miracle of miracles, we are all here to tell the story. Hauling the rules about quiet hours out of the ghost elevator, brushing them off and even enforcing them helped a little, or should we just admit that Talcott brains work superbly on ten o'clock graham crackers and milk? With the advent of the second semester, the whole routine of our daily life was changed. No longer did we have to study by flashlight in the gigantic closets after ten-thirty. And spreads began at ten instead of nine. But after a few nights under the new regime, we started going to bed at 10:30 from choice.

On January 14, the girls, clad in plaids and sucking butterscotch lollypops, tried their luck with the Highland Fling. You've guessed it—a Scotch Rec. Always out to get our money's worth!

Lying at the end of the East Kipton Mile is Club Delta, Oberlin's Monte Carlo. Utterly cosmopolitan, it turns no one away from its doors. Apaches, Nuns, Playboys and Boy Scouts are all welcomed. Most of the year it masks its true nature, pretending to be a rooming house for men, calling itself Delta Lodge. But once a year it flaunts before the college authorities its blatant sign, Club Delta—No cover, No minimum, No nothing. At great personal risk, the Hi-O-Hi photographer, disguised as a Chinese student, took these revealing pictures.

SOUTH

Gradually awakening from a lethargy of college environment, Oberlin students opened their eyes on March 15, to find that they were in the midst of a discussion of the relations with their neighbors to the South. Unfortunately they didn't realize its pertinence in today's world of crisis until too late.

Months previous to this opening date committees of research, finance, publicity, invitations, and execution, under the leadership of Vlad Dupre, student chairman of the Pan American Congress, had labored diligently to prepare for what was supposed to be an affair more extensive and far-reaching than the traditional Mock Convention. Such men as Guy Hickok, Dr. Herbert Bolton, John Glenn, and Dr. Richard Pattee presented their views to student round tables, and with the aid of Sterling Fisher, to the country via the radio.

WE DESERT THE LADIES

On the night of March 20, when tradition deprived the stronger sex of their traditional companions, Warner Gym was the scene of much rollicking, roisterous revelry, with good fellowship overflowing the sides. Sponsored by the Men's Committee, M. C'ed by Bernie Baker, and participated in by fifty percent of the men, this stag ably filled the shoes of its only predecessor, and proved to all that the Men's Stag should become a permanent fixture. Humor was the keynote, and the octave was unspecified, as a three piece band disguised music, Delta soldiers demonstrated the finer points of marching, three fellows burlesqued a burlesque, and cocoa and crackers provided the stimulant.

WE LEAVE THE MEN

Bluebeard fights for both teams

Twice a year we leave the men. Once—early in the year for the W. S. G. L. picnic at which Freshman women are given distinctions; and again in the Spring when we journey to the gym to see the Yale-Princeton Game. The night of the picnic, the men stay home and eat steak. The night of Yale-Princeton, they hold a stag and then raid our houses. Our between-half stunts, however, have left us in such a good humor that we can laugh off our emptied drawers and upset beds.

W E L O O K T O T H E

On Friday, November 29, at noon chapel, Miss Freda Kirchwey, editor of the Nation, opened the two-day Women's Occupational Symposium. Her keynote address emphasized the place of women in our democratic society, and the importance of education and liberal thought in maintaining and strengthening this society. And the conference was under way. Successful women talked about their fields, how to get jobs, how to hold them, the type of work, and the rapidity of advancement. Oberlin women discovered that wishful thinking would have to be replaced by intelligent action if they were to have successful careers. Private conferences with the guests were arranged for those desiring them. Peg Good, student chairman of the symposium, her committee, Kay Hunt, president of WSGL which sponsored the conference, and Dean Woodworth who donated her time and offices to the Symposium deserve credit for the planning and execution of the conference.

WE LISTEN TO CLASSICAL MUSIC

This year the Artist Recitals again brought to Oberlin an impressive array of great musicians of many lands. Suzanne Sten and John Charles Thomas delighted their audiences with the free and informal manner with which they sang. Zino Francescatti, French Violinist, displayed an amazing technique, while 'cellist Felix Salmond was England's representative. The young American pianist, Eugene List, did very well on his difficult program, while Vladimir Horowitz gave an exhibition of flawless technique and beautiful tone coupled with great feeling. One of the most interesting programs was that given by the world-famous Spanish harpist, Carlos Salzedo. The Coolidge String Quartet gave three fine programs of chamber music, and the Cleveland Orchestra did its usual excellent work in its three programs.

WE DANCE TO MODERN MUSIC

What magnetic charm has the phrase "formal dance"? The answer to that lies in the Oberlin, even American, tradition of dressing things up. We dressed the Inn tip and we dressed ourselves up. And for what? For variety. The decorations, the dress, the atmosphere, make the sour notes sound sweet, the familiar hall a fairyland, the casual school girl into something glamorous.

NAME BANDS

Formal Dances! Name Bands! Expensive Bids! No Corsage! With excitement permeating the atmosphere, the dance plans get under way. Headaches and disappointments, problems and worries all add up to a very big Saturday night. Experience has shown that the gray hairs received are not necessary, because all formals are successful.

Amid extensive and complicated decorations, with spotlight beams invading the enveloping darkness, couples dance, partly oblivious to their environment. Yes, it must be concluded that formals are indeed an indispensable part of Oberlin life, in spite of the oblivion which characterizes most couples.

“Come on, Dad, go see that new Pontiac!”

“IT’S A BEAUTY, POP—Gee, it’s got everything. New ‘Torpedo’ styling. Those new enclosed running boards. A keen new safety steering wheel with horn operating keys set right in it. A swell new front end design. And they say it’s a honey to handle. Just wait ’til you get behind that wheel.”

“YOU CAN GET A SIX OR AN EIGHT in any 1941 Pontiac model. Just think of that—you have your choice. Lots of power in the six—but if you want it, only $25.00 more gets you the big, smooth, economical, eight-cylinder engine. Is that ever something? Gangway for us when we get our new Pontiac.”

“AND IT’S LOVELY INSIDE—Seats are wider. Windows are bigger. Some of the models have center arm rests in the rear seats. Ash trays all around. The Sedans have automatic interior lighting. And the upholstery is awfully pretty. Honest, Dad, you’ll just have to see that new Pontiac before you’ll ever believe you could buy so much car for so little money.”

The Artistic CONOVER

Nearly sixty years ago a master of piano artistry visioned the Conover. His all absorbing aim was to create a Piano with a tone that would be delicate but with rich sustaining power, brilliant yet mellow. In metal, wood and ivory, his workmen translated that vision. Skillful hands have carried on their work, testing and improving, until today Conover tone is the accepted standard of leading music schools everywhere. In the Conover are indeed fused the genius of one man and the craftsmanship of many.

The CONOVER GRAND

Small enough for the modern apartment—large enough to provide unusual volume and beauty of tone. Artistic to the last degree.

The CONOVER CONSOLE

Although compactly built, ingenious treatment of the sounding board, placement of the scale and patented Harmonic Tone Amplifier, give this piano a tone of uncommon beauty and resonance.

MEDUSA EARNS "M.B.M." DEGREE at OBERLIN

OF COURSE you won't find Medusa registered as a student at Oberlin nor will you find that an "M.B.M." degree is given at Oberlin, so a little explaining is in order.

Every student knows Medusa as that lady of Greek mythology whose beautiful hair was turned into hissing serpents by the jealous goddess Minerva so that she became a monster so fearful that no living thing could behold her without being turned into stone.

Years ago this company selected the name Medusa to symbolize the modern magic by which Medusa Portland Cements create buildings as solid as native rock. And so the name Medusa lives today. Medusa Cements and other Medusa products have been used in the construction of many of Oberlin's finest buildings. These products have earned the degree of Master of Building Materials by their years of usefulness in Oberlin buildings.

We appreciate the consideration that Oberlin College has already given to Medusa products and hope that they will continue to be selected for their usefulness in Oberlin buildings to be constructed in the future.

We point with pride . . .

The Everett Orgatron

IT is a source of particular pride to us that Oberlin College includes in its musical equipment both Everett pianos and Everett Orgatrons. We are determined to continue to merit the approval of the Oberlin faculty and student body by maintaining the high standards of manufacturing for which the name "Everett" has stood for more than fifty-eight years.

We extend our best wishes for the ever-increasing growth and progress of Oberlin and its distinguished Conservatory.

Although moderately priced, the design and craftsmanship embodied in this popular 35-millimeter Kodak stamps it as a true precision miniature. The fast, color-corrected Kodak Anastigmat lens gives you sparkling, detailed Kodachrome images. And it makes needle-sharp black-and-white negatives which lead to big, brilliant enlargements, as well as the standard  $2\frac{3}{4}$  x 4 inch prints. Built of the finest materials with all machined parts held to an extremely close tolerance, Kodak 35 is not matched by any similar camera in its price range.
